Entry music - Ave Maria by Mario Lanza

Welcome

Reading by Bertrand Russell, read by Felicity.

An individual human existence should be like a river: small at first, narrowly contained within its banks, and rushing passionately past rocks and over waterfalls. Gradually the river grows wider, the banks recede, the waters flow more quietly, and in the end, without any visible break, they become merged in the sea, and painlessly lose their individual being. The woman who, in old age, can see her life in this way, will not suffer from the fear of death, since the things she cares for will continue. And if, with the decay of vitality, weariness increases, the thought of rest will not be unwelcome.

A tribute to Cynthia

Music for reflection- Wind Beneath My Wings

Farewell

Cynthia, we feel privileged that you lived.
We grieve that you are no longer with us,
but we know that you will live on in the hearts,
lives and memories of those who knew and loved you.
We remember with gratitude, your character and all your qualities, your warmth, your colour, your smile
And the good times we had in your company.
And now with love we leave you in peace.
And with respect we bid you farewell.

Closing words

Music for the congregation to depart-
This is my song by Petula Clark.
