Andy has been buried at a Woodland burial site near Edenbridge. It is full of wildlife and birds and next to a railway line – all things he loved. We buried him with some of his favourite rocks from places he had visited such as Iceland and Africa, some sand from Egypt and a small piece of meteorite from outer space.

If anyone would like to visit, please contact us for details.

The family would like to express thanks for all the kind messages and support they have received.
